

J.A. Strategies, LLC

Jennifer Amstutz, founder and principal of J.A. Strategies, LLC, is a consultant providing organizational, board and staff development consulting and training in organizational change management, strategic and business planning, evaluation, and interim management.

Jennifer has helped numerous organizations transition through change: working on issues such as reorganizing staff structure, developing revenue sources through fundraising initiatives, implementing new financial procedures and processes, and improving communication. Jennifer is skilled at quickly understanding program and organizational issues in order to help board and staff develop improved practices. Jennifer is also an experienced facilitator and trainer.

Jennifer started her career working on human services policy in Washington, DC, before relocating to the New York Capital Region, where she spent more than 10 years in Executive Director and leadership positions.

Jennifer has a Master's Degree in Public and Nonprofit Management (M.P.A.) from New York University.

Alan Krieger, founder of Krieger Solutions, LLC is a former Executive Director of a statewide non-profit and former supervisor for a NYS agency. Founded in 1992, Krieger Solutions provides training and consulting in leadership, team building, communication, evaluation, strategic planning and time management.

Alan is an experienced trainer and leadership coach helping leaders build strong teams and effective operations. His training is very practical, focusing on strategies people can put to use right away. He actively engages participants in their own learning.

Alan is also a highly skilled facilitator helping organizations resolve difficult issues, reach challenging decisions, and work through issues that inhibit success. Alan has a Master's Degree in Management from Antioch New England Graduate School and over 30 years' experience as a leader, trainer, facilitator and coach.
